

COXEY'S NEW CAMP.

His Army at Bladensburg to Remain Indefinitely.

RECRUITS ARRIVING REGULARLY.

The Army Growing Larger Day by Day, and Citizens of Bladensburg and Hyattsville Anxious—Meantime Other Contingents Are Steadily Marching On.

HYATTSVILLE, Md., May 15.—The Coxeys army moved yesterday from Hyattsville to Bladensburg. The use of the yard surrounding the old hotel known as the George Washington was tendered, and as the Hyattsville people had no use for the recruits the offer was accepted. The authorities here and at Bladensburg are determined to keep the whip hand over the Coxeites, and to prevent lawlessness of any kind thirty special deputies have been appointed to patrol the streets of both towns day and night. As there are already 699 Coxeites in camp, as advance guards of Galvin's, Kelly's and Frye's armies have arrived, and as General Coxe re-asserts that he proposes to remain until every Commonwealth in the country has arrived and congress has passed his bills, the danger of an immense camp of Coxeites becomes an alarming reality.

Senator Teller's Sympathy for Coxeys.
PUEBLO, Colo., May 15.—Senator Teller, in a letter to a citizen of this city, expresses sympathy for the Coxeys army now in Washington, declares the arrest and trial of Coxeys, Brown and Jones was a farce, and concludes: "It is difficult to know what to do with these people who are here in distress, with thousands of others, through no fault of theirs. I, myself, believe the present dreadful condition of our laboring and producing people is the direct and immediate result of bad legislation already on our statute books and other that is threatened, but I have no hope of immediate legislation that will give the required relief. What will happen in the near future I cannot say, and believe for my peace of mind it is well I cannot."

Another "Army" Arrested.
GRANDER, Wyo., May 15.—General Scheffer was captured at Green River, Wyo., by Marshal Rankin. Scheffer had reached Green River at 3 p. m. on the passenger train from the west, and spent the afternoon soliciting supplies for the army. He disclaimed all connection with the army, and exhibited a Union Pacific ticket from Portland to Kansas City, and said he would sue the United States for infringing on his rights as an American citizen in placing him under arrest. Marshal Rankin took him to Cheyenne. The marshal's special train went to Cokeville, where 200 industrialists were camped in box cars. Scheffer's army, numbering 220 men, were placed under arrest.

Train Stenlers Sentenced.
HELENA, Mont., May 15.—In the United States district court Judge Knowles disposed of the cases of the 330 Coxeites who stole a Northern Pacific train April 24 and fled eastward until they were captured by United States troops. Hogan, the "general" in command of the army, was sentenced to six months in the county jail. The engineer and fireman who ran the train, and forty captains and lieutenants were given sixty days each in the same jail. The others will be brought into court in squads of forty, and pledging their word not to engage in any more such proceedings the judge will let them loose.

The Boston Commonwealths.
CHESTER, Pa., May 15.—Fitzgerald's Boston army, numbering fifty-three men, commanded by "Go Ahead" Adams, reached this city last night and went into camp in Star hall, in the center of the city. A meeting with speaking and a variety show was held without police interference, and a generous supply of provisions was contributed by Chester workmen. The army started for Wilmington, Del., this morning. Fitzgerald, the leader of this contingent, is in Moramensing prison, Philadelphia, being held to answer at court for uttering seditious language.

Sweetland's Company at Paterson.
PATERSON, N. J., May 15.—At a meeting of the striking silk weavers yesterday reports were read showing that just eleven men of all those out at the different mills had returned to work. The Sweetland contingent of Coxeys' army was present, and cheered the report and speeches made by the strike leaders. The gentlemanly behavior of the Connecticut Coxeites has won them many friends here, and a number of the strikers say it is their intention to join them when they leave the city this afternoon.

Riot in Kelly's Camp.
OTTUMWA, Ia., May 15.—There was a small riot at Kelly's camp last evening. The mayor of Ottumwa hired and paid for grounds for the army to camp on. When they arrived, the owner of the ground demanded an admission of ten cents to enter. After a number had paid Kelly arrived and demanded that it be stopped. Trouble followed and a free fight was in progress when the mayor arrived and decided in Kelly's favor. The army left for Eldon this forenoon.

A Real Army Promised.
DENVER, May 15.—General Hegwer, commander-in-chief of the Coxeys reserve army, announces that 25,000 men are ready to move on to Washington from Colorado in a body, and when the others west of the Mississippi are heard from the day for starting will be set.

Galvin's Men Starving.
GREENSBORO, Pa., May 15.—The Galvin Commonwealths received very little encouragement here, and now the army is on the verge of starvation. Forty special policemen are now guarding the town against the starving unfortunates.

SLOW WORK IN THE SENATE.

How Action on the Tariff Bill Is Retarded by Amendments.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The senate debate on the tariff bill dragged wearily on yesterday, the Republicans nagging and harassing the majority and talking progress at every step. Only six paragraphs of the second section of the bill were disposed of as a result of seven hours work. The senate is now on page 3, paragraph 11 of the second section. There are 231 pages and 606 paragraphs in the second section, and 105 sections in the bill. A glance at this will show the progress made, as the senate entered upon the seventh week of the debate yesterday. About twenty-five amendments were offered by the Republicans to the six items upon which the rates were fixed yesterday, and debated with a persistence which exasperated the Democrats beyond measure. The latter kept their temper fairly well, however, and refused to be drawn into controversy. The only feature of the day's proceedings was Mr. Platt's observations on the alleged surrender of the Democrats to the sugar trust. An attempt by Mr. Allison to restore blue vitriol and copper to the dutiable list was defeated.

It was "disturbing day" in the house and several unimportant bills were passed. The only important bill passed was one giving the Washington, Alexandria and Mt. Vernon Electric Railway company an entrance into Washington. During the consideration of district bills an exciting disturbance was created by a crazy negro in the gallery who addressed the speaker and urged him to promptly pass the Coxeys bill under penalty of incurring divine vengeance. He was promptly ejected. The re-election of Representative Barnes Compton, of Maryland was laid before the house, after which a bill was passed authorizing the Braddock and Homestead Bridge company to build a bridge over the Monongahela river at Homestead, Pa.

Determined to Beat Breckinridge.
LEXINGTON, Ky., May 15.—The best people of Lexington and Fayette county, including several hundred ladies, turned out yesterday to the anti-Breckinridge meeting at the opera house. There were no hoodlums present, and the meeting, from a standpoint of morality, was a tremendous success. The opera house was filled, 500 people were turned away. Resolutions were adopted denouncing Breckinridge's morals and calling on the good people of the district to vote against him. When Henry C. Clay got up and offered a resolution asking that Senator J. C. S. Blackburn be asked to obtain leave of absence from the senate, and that he come home and from the rostrum speak against Breckinridge the audience went wild.

Striking Miners Make Friends.
CLEANFIELD, Pa., May 15.—The situation among the soft coal miners in this county remains unchanged. Of the 10,000 miners in the entire region only sixteen were at work on Saturday. They were employed at the Tunnel mine, near Woodland, and yesterday they, too, went out. Careful inquiry indicates that the men are now more confident of winning than they were two weeks ago. Not one can be found who advocates going back to work at the old price. All of the business men throughout the region commend the miners for the good order that prevails, and all wish them success.

The Oyster Grounds Not Private.
TRENTON, May 15.—The commission appointed by the governor to investigate the oyster war in the Delaware bay submitted a voluminous report last night, in which it is asserted that no specific right in oyster privileges has ever been granted to riparian owners. The commissioners strongly recommended that New Jersey follow the example of other states in assuming control of this matter, and suggest various regulations. If the state does take the lands the commissioners suggest that they be acquired by means of condemnation proceedings.

Brazil Defies Portugal.
WASHINGTON, May 15.—Senator Mendonca, the Brazilian minister, received the following cable dispatch from his government: "The president of the republic has suspended diplomatic relations with Portugal, giving passports to Count Paraty and the personnel of the Portuguese legation at Rio, and ordered the Brazilian legation at Lisbon to withdraw." Senator Mendonca says this action is the outgrowth of Portugal's refusal to deliver up the rebels who took refuge on Portuguese gunboats.

Senator Caffery Re-elected.
BAYONNE, La., May 15.—The general assembly elected Senator Daniel Caffery for the long term of United States senator, beginning March 4, 1895. The vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Edwards D. White, recently made a justice of the supreme court, is yet to be filled. The term expires March 4, 1897, and the seat is now held by Newton C. Blanchard, by appointment by the governor.

MURDER BY WHOLESALE.

A Wealthy California Rancher Charged with Killing Nine Persons.

YREKA, Cal., May 15.—The grand jury has brought in indictments accusing G. Decker, a wealthy rancher, of the murder of his wife, Margaret E. Decker, and her babe, twenty-seven years ago, and Rosie Stone, a granddaughter, about eight years ago.

Besides these murders he is charged with other foul and unnatural crimes, committed at various times during the last thirty years. Several of these murders are susceptible of proof, others are based on suspicion more or less well founded, though in some cases it amounts to moral certainty. Besides the three named the list comprises Edward Stone, who was Decker's second wife's son-in-law; Benjamin Decker's son; Caroline Goodrich Decker, his second wife; a 4-year-old son of Edward Stone, a hired man in Sacramento valley, name unknown, and a man in Illinois, name unknown.

Decker killed his first wife and child in 1877, literally butchering them, and burying their bones on the top of a high ridge. Their discovery a short time ago crystallized the belief prevalent for some time that he was guilty of many atrocities, and led to his arrest. After his first wife's death he married a widow named Goodrich and lived with her over twenty years, and is believed to have gotten rid of her finally in 1893 by poison. He disposed of a child, was hanged in 1886. The murder in Illinois is said to have been committed before he came west, and the one in Sacramento valley after his arrival. His victims were killed because they stood in the way of the gratification of his desires, or knew of his crimes.

Fell Sixty Feet to Death.
NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 15.—A frightful accident occurred at the back of the gorge here. Two boys, Fred Ellis, 14 years old, and George Cole, were playing near what is known as Hubbard's point, about opposite the mill districts of the American side. Young Ellis was on the edge of the bank leaning over, and to support himself, placed his weight on the limb of a small tree that projected over the dizzy height. The limb broke, precipitating the lad heading down the slope for a distance of about sixty feet. He struck on a rock, crushing his skull into a jelly. The body rolled down the slope fully a hundred feet before it caught. Death was instantaneous.

A Rotten Banking Institution.
NEW BLOOMFIELD, Pa., May 15.—Frederick C. Funk who was appointed to examine into the affairs of the rotten Perry County bank of Sponsler, Junkin & Co., has made public his report, showing that the institution has been rotten for twenty years, being kept afloat during that time by perjury and false statements to the state authorities. The liabilities are $120,000, and the $110,000 due depositors is entirely lost.

Robbed by Forged Checks.
BELAIR, Md., May 15.—The Hartford National bank, of Belair, has been victimized out of $3,700 by a stranger, who claimed to be from Connecticut. The stranger, who arranged to buy a farm at Priestford Bridge for $2,500, used forged checks in victimizing the bank. His name, which was probably assumed, is withheld for prudential reasons.

Belgian Agents Assassinated.
BRUSSELS, May 15.—The independence of Belgium has been the Congo free state reporting that the Mayumba and Lukungu districts are in a disturbed state, and that four Belgian agents have been murdered within ten weeks.

BROOKLYN HANDICAP.

Final Runs of the Horses Preceding the Great Event.

PEEDY ONES TO SELECT FROM.

Warrants Sworn Out Against the Officers of the Club for Maintaining a Lottery, and Arrests Probable—But This Will Not Prevent the Race.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Almost as many people as were at the track Sunday were on hand yesterday to watch the last appearances of the horses engaged in the Brooklyn handicap, to be run at Gravesend this afternoon.

The list of probable starters, as far as can be learned this forenoon is as follows: Clford, Sir Walter, Ajax, Banquet, Don Alonzo, Sport, Diablo, Bassettlaw, Dr. Rice, Comanche, Lowlander, Blitzen, Copyright, Henry of Navarre, Herald, Mac-hall, Long Beach. Among these Don Alonzo, Copyright and Diablo are most likely to scratch.

Clford did the best work yesterday, for he covered a mile in good style in 1:41, and seemed to move with more freedom than he has shown since his arrival in the east. He is pretty safe to go to the post a favorite, although it will be with the public money, as the trainers and those who practically live at the track are not in favor of this western representative. It was thought by many that he looked a trifle tucked up and did not sweat as a horse in good condition should after a gallop of that nature. His chances ought to be good, however, for he has had the advantage of racing this year, which none of the others have, while against that is the fact that he has come here a little later than he should.

Ajax was out with Garrison in the saddle, and worked a mile in 1:51, the last furlong taking 32 1/2 seconds.

Banquet and Don Alonzo galloped two miles at a two minute gait, and both may be seen at the post, but the latter is not considered likely to be much more than a pacemaker for Banquet unless he has changed materially from his condition on Sunday.

Sport had his last exercise on the road to Bayonne. His owners are still hoping that he will make up his mind to run when he gets to the post with the lot, and that he will repeat his work of last spring, when he defeated some of the horses who are with him today. Sport, however, is an eccentric animal and may not even be persuaded to try.

Diablo was out with Pessara, and last year's winner moved well, although he was not tried to any extent. He does not appear to be at all lame, but he will not have the services of Taral this year to rate him along at a comfortable pace and then, seizing the opportunity, jump into the lead at a time when it is too late to catch him. His victory a year ago is looked on as a good deal of a fluke, and few expect to see it repeated.

Bassettlaw was out for an easy gallop, but did not show up as well as was expected, and while Matt Allen thinks that he will get the biggest part of the money few agree with him.

Dr. Rice was at the track for a quiet canter and then went back to Sheepshead Bay for the breather of a mile, which he did in good shape. Taral is confident of a winning, and thinks that he has the best of the lot to ride.

Comanche was worked a mile and a half at an easy clip, and McLaughlin thinks the winner will be mauling oats in his stable tonight.

Lowlander, the winner of last year's Suburban, went for a gallop over the same road as Sport, and while his work of Sunday was by no means satisfactory to Lowe, the horse is expected to do better in the race.

Blitzen got a breather, but his owner is hoping for rain as the only chance for him.

Copyright did a mile in 1:50, and seemed to be a little short of work.

Herald went a mile at a little better than a two minute clip, and Long Beach did the same thing. The former will be backed to a man by the Moonmouth Park contingent.

Henry of Navarre was not out, his owner being content with his work of Saturday. Navarre still holds the favorite with a good many judges.

DeLacey is bound to make trouble if he can, and has sworn out warrants against the officers of the club for maintaining a lottery, claiming that the putting up of $500 by each owner, to be won by one horse, is a lottery within the meaning of the law. It is not improbable that arrests will be made, but they will have little effect upon the meeting.

VETOED BY GOVERNOR WERTS.

New Jersey's Executive Sends Back Eight Unpassed Measures.

TRENTON, May 15.—The nineteenth week of the legislative session opened last night with a lot of vetoes to consider from Governor Werts, who was too ill to attend to his duties last week.

One of the vetoes is attached to senate bill 92, which takes the appointment of road supervisors, under the stone road law, from the governor and vests it in the various boards of freeholders, and reduces the compensation to $3 per day. He thinks the appointing power should be transferred to the president of the state board of agriculture, if any change is made.

Another of the vetoed bills is that which gives the sheriffs of Hudson and Essex counties charge of the jails and prisoners. The governor says that the boards of freeholders have had this control for thirty-seven years, and in that period the wisdom of the provision has been demonstrated. The proposed change, he says, is for purely partisan purposes.

The governor also objects to the bill providing for a non-partisan board of state prison inspectors, upon the ground that a declaration requiring membership in certain political parties, as a necessary qualification to holding the office of inspector, or any other office, is unconstitutional, in that such a provision would disqualify the members of all other parties.

Another veto applies to the bill for reorganizing the police courts in Newark and Jersey City, on the ground that it is mere partisan legislation, and that the courts provided for to replace the old ones would be no improvement.

Other bills vetoed are as follows: Reorganizing the law department of Jersey City; allowing the mayors of Newark and Jersey City to appoint commissions to change the ward lines; reorganizing the boards of chosen freeholders in counties of the first class. All are objected to because the governor thinks they are designed for partisan purposes in obtaining control of office.

The bill annexing the towns of Harrison and Kearney, in Hudson county, to Essex county, is objected to by the governor because the principle asserted of severing county relations, without giving the municipality affected a chance to express their views, is heresy, rather than home rule.

The senate passed the bill, after vigorous discussion, which prevents the sale of liquor in quantities of less than two and a half gallons from wagons.

Shot and Robbed by Her Lover.

JERSEY CITY, May 15.—Jennie Rupp, a young German woman, was found lying on an unfrequented road near Snake Hill with blood flowing from pistol wounds in her right ear and left breast. She was unconscious when found, but soon rallied sufficiently to tell her story. She has been employed for ten years at Rome, N. Y., and eloped from there with Bernhard Altenberger, a 25-year-old German, and her accented lover, on Sunday. She says he induced her to walk with him to the place where she was found, and then shot her. She was robbed of everything of value, including $235 in money and a gold watch and chain.

Older Harvey Avenged.

ATBURN, N. Y., May 15.—Lucius, alias "Dink," Wilson, was put to death by electricity in Auburn prison yesterday. Wilson's crime was the killing of James Harvey, the oldest and best known officer on the Syracuse police force, on July 31, 1893. Harvey had arrested Wilson and the latter's brother Charles for a burglary and was taking the two men through the street to police headquarters when one of the men drew a revolver and shot the detective dead. Lucius was captured directly after the shooting, but Charles was not caught until two weeks later. The latter is awaiting trial at Syracuse.

Dying from Remorse.

CINCINNATI, May 15.—The chances that Father Dominic O'Grady, who shot Mary Gilmarin on the street April 25, will ever suffer the legal penalty of his crime are remote. The man seems to be dying from remorse. He has lost all interest in life, and is living in a semi-starving state. Yesterday, when brought into court, when the lawyers argued his plea of abatement he had to be supported in walking, and when seated his head hung in a listless manner.

Wiped Out by Forest Fire.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 15.—Details of the destructive forest fires at Cammal on Sunday have reached this city. The O'Brien timber camp was entirely wiped out, twenty lumbermen, many of them with their wives and families, being hemmed in by the flames, and being able to make their escape only after wading down Trout run for a distance of a mile. The forest fire is still burning.

A FRUITLESS CAUCUS.

Republican Senators Cannot Agree on a Mode of Procedure.

IN SESSION NEARLY FOUR HOURS.

Each Senator Left Free to Vote and Act in Accordance with His Own Wishes. Some Senators Believe the Tariff Bill Can Be Defeated.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The Republican members of the senate were in caucus at Senator Sherman's house last night from 8 until 11:30. The caucus partook more of the nature of an informal conference than a business meeting, and while it was called with the purpose of arriving at a conclusion as to the method to be pursued by the Republican party in the senate it closed without eliciting anything in the way of party declaration. There was no vote on any proposition whatever, and the proceedings consisted of a large number of speeches. There were about twenty-five of the thirty-seven senators present, and every one there had something to say in the course of the evening.

There was a great divergence of views. Indeed, the accounts of the meeting agree that while there were probably twenty brief speeches no two of them were on the same lines, or advised the same manner of proceeding. There was no agreement except upon the one point, that the bill should be beaten if possible. On general lines the greatest divergence of opinion was on the ability of the Republicans to beat the bill at all, and while there was no formal division which would permit of a counting the caucus appeared to be about evenly divided in sentiment upon this question.

A statement that eastern senators were favorable to the continuation of the opposition on the lines which are now being observed, and that western senators were opposed to any effort to secure delay for delay's sake, would be in a general way correct, but there were exceptions on both sides. Senators Aldrich, Chandler, Frye and others contended that the bill could be defeated, and said that all that was necessary to demonstrate the correctness of this assertion was to give the Democrats time to widen the breach which they asserted now exists. Some of them declared that four or five Democratic votes could be counted on as opposed to the bill, while one of those present went so far as to say that he was assured of the opposition of at least seven Democratic senators. No names of Democratic senators were given however.

The opposition element contended that there was no positive assurance of any Democratic support in opposition to the bill, and that the only means of testing the truth of the rumors of Democratic disaffection was to let the voting go on. There was much talk as to the general demerits and inconsistencies of the bill, and some of the silver Republican senators did not fail to call attention to the lack of sympathy which had been displayed on the part of Republican senators when the silver repeal bill was before the senate last fall, and to intimate that they had no desire at this time to heap coals of fire on the heads of that element in the party at this time by doing kindness in return for what they termed inconsiderateness.

These silver senators agreed in the main with their Republican colleagues as to the undesirability of passing the bill, but declared they would not filibuster, especially in view of the strong probability of the passage of the bill, despite any opposition that might be made to it. The more radical opponents of the bill replied that they had no desire to or intention of filibustering, but asserted that the bill was one which could be opposed by legitimate methods for a long time.

There was also an exchange of views on the policy of Republicans voting for the Democratic amendments to the bill, but the only agreement reached upon this point, as upon the other, was to allow for the present individual Republicans to act in accordance with their own inclinations.

Some of the senators expressed the opinion at the close of the conference that another meeting of the party in the senate would be held at an early day.

The caucus assigned Senator Patton to positions on the committees on agriculture, claims, railroads and Indian affairs. Senator McMillan will resign from the committee on agriculture and will take the place on naval affairs made vacant by Senator Stockbridge's death. Senator Davis will retire from the committee on claims.

Looks Like Murder.

SUNBURY, Pa., May 15.—Early in the morning the body of Daniel Boyer, a prominent farmer of Jordan township, near here, was found in his buggy in his barnyard. Boyer had been to Uniontown during the night, and left for his home, three miles distant, at 10 o'clock. He was accompanied by Elias Bush, a neighbor. Bush left Boyer within 500 yards of the latter's home to go to his own residence. When Boyer's hired man came out to the barnyard he found the horse standing near the stable door and Boyer's body lying across the seat with his skull crushed. The position of the wound does away with any theory of suicide or accident. Boyer was wealthy, and is not known to have had any enemies.

A PASSENGER'S DUTY.

Unless He Performs It He Cannot Recover Damages from a Railway.

The case of Mrs. Henrietta Childs vs. the N. Y. O. and W. Railway Co., a decision in which was recently handed down by the General Term at Albany, throws considerable light on the duties of a passenger who alights from a railway train at the wrong station. It will be remembered that Mrs. Childs, while riding on the O. and W. Railway got off at a station two miles from her destination, being induced to do so by the trainman calling out the wrong name. It was raining very hard and Mrs. Childs walked the two miles. As a result she became very ill. She sued the railway company and the evidence showed that she could have stayed at a house near the place where she alighted, but that she made no effort to do so. She recovered a verdict of $400 from the company. In referring the decision and ordering a new trial Judge Herrick, who wrote the opinion, says:

"The Court arrived in refusing to find as a matter of law, that it was the plaintiff's duty under all the circumstances to inquire whether there was a place at hand where she could be protected overnight, before she started on what was to be a dangerous journey by foot; and submitting the question of prudence without limitation of testimony to the jury."

The plaintiff as we have seen had been suffering from physical disability at intervals for about a year, she knew that any undue exposure or exposure would bring on a recurrence of such difficulty. She is left at a station in the evening, during a rain storm, some two miles distant from her destination, and it seems to me that as a matter of law it was her duty before she undertook to walk there, with her preexisting health and in a storm, to make some inquiries whether she could procure any conveyance there, and if not, whether there was any convenient place in the vicinity where she could be cared for overnight, and that failing to make such inquiries, and blindly and heedlessly undergoing the fatigue of the journey by foot, and the exposure to the elements, when there were places near at hand where she could have been cared for during the night, that she is not entitled to recover damages for the injuries resulting from such exposure.

Mrs. Childs is the widow of Archibald N. Childs, a brother of J. M. Childs, General Manager of the O. and W. Railway. She formerly resided in Kingston, and the case was tried there. Linson & VanBuren appearing for the plaintiff and William Vassmer, Esq. of this city, representing the defendant.

Facts Worth Knowing

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuff, powders or astringents, because they are irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who had for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm. Your druggist has it.

Two brothers were run down and killed while walking on the track, one mile west of Hancock, about 4:30 Saturday afternoon. They were walking side by side down the track, each holding the end of a stick, on which was a basket of chickens, which they were carrying to the Hancock market. Protecting Cottoleone

The N. E. Fairbank Company of Chicago have lately brought suit in the United States Court against W. L. Henry, of this city, for $5,000.00 for infringement of their trade mark "Cottoleone." The N. E. Fairbank Company sets forth that they own, prepared, and put upon the market a new food product consisting of refined Cotton Seed Oil and a small proportion of Beef Suet, making a pale yellow material of the consistency and substance of lard, almost without odor and intended to take the place of lard in cooking.

In order to indicate the source and genuineness of their new food product, they originated, coined, and used as a trade mark the word "Cottoleone." The healthfulness and many other advantages of Cottoleone over lard were so apparent that Cottoleone became at once very popular and is now largely sold all over the country.

The new food product and its name "Cottoleone" have become widely known as the product of The N. E. Fairbank Company. The trade mark is described as a "trade mark for Oleaginous Food Substances, etc.," consisting of a head or neck of a steer or other bovine partially enclosed by sprigs and branches of the Cotton plant.

The N. E. Fairbank Company charges that W. L. Henry, of Mason, Ga., a dealer in fresh meats and food products generally, has been and is endeavoring unlawfully to avail himself of the benefits of the name "Cottoleone" and its popularity; that he has been and is selling a product similar in kind, but inferior in quality, under the name of "Cottoleone" to the injury of the original and genuine "Cottoleone," and to the loss and injury of its manufacturers, The N. E. Fairbank Company.

The infringements upon the trade mark of "Cottoleone" have become so frequent, and so many dealers are selling an inferior article and claiming it to be Cottoleone that The N. E. Fairbank Company are determined to protect their customers and purpose to sue every retail dealer who is thus imposing upon his customers and infringing upon The N. E. Fairbank Company's trade mark.—Telegraph, Mason, Ga.

TUESDAY, MAY 15, 1894.

A band of "industrialists" at Omaha was offered work on a new railroad, the contractor, although the army was an unpromising looking lot, being willing to pay each man $1.40 a day. The offer was indignantly spurned. The industrialists are not railroad builders. Their interest centers in good wagon roads, built at national expense, and there is so little prospect of anything of the kind that they are in as little danger of getting work as is the plain, every-day tramp, who is a landscape gardener in winter and an ice sawyer in summer.

A whimsical genius has discovered that the extension of suffrage to women will defeat one of the purposes for which the constitution of the United States was "ordained and established." In the preamble of that immortal document it is set forth that one of the great objects of forming a constitutional union is "to insure domestic tranquility," and this strict constructionist argues that woman suffrage, by adding political differences to the long list of things about which families already squabble, will do anything but "insure domestic tranquility." The contention is ingenious, if not exactly convincing, and is far superior to many of the so-called arguments used by those who prattle for and against woman suffrage.

A little while ago, when it was thought the Wilson bill might become law with unimportant amendments, if any, the New York Tribune fanned itself into white heat in denunciation of it as a free trade measure pure and simple. Now that the Senate Finance Committee has so changed that instrument that Senator Mills, voicing the views of all at all radical tariff reformers, declares it to be only less sweeping protectionism than is McKinley's law itself, one would naturally think that the Tribune would sing another tune. But not so. Indeed, it is just as dead set against the modified as it was against the original bill. It sneers at Senator Murphy's collar and cuff schedule and it denounces Brice and Gorman as having pandered to trusts and monopolies by raising the duties on sugar, coal and iron and certain manufactured products. Now, what is the moral of all this? Is it not, that the Tribune, in line with the tactics of the Republican Senators, is committed to any and every sort of opposition to Democratic tariff legislation? If duties are lowered, it is Democratic free trade; if they are keyed to a revenue yielding basis, why then the party has been sold out to the capitalistic barons. It is anything to thwart Democratic action; anything to keep the business of the country in the dumps; anything to promote Republican chances in the Fall elections. But the question comes up—how about the people—the voters? Is it to be supposed that they are blind to this programme of rule or ruin—this game of dice throwing with the country's prosperity staked against a party's success at the polls.

EXCITED OVER WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

From the Kingston Freeman.
The Woman Suffrage movement is becoming exciting in some portions of the upper part of the city, since there are two active parties. The men talk about as much in regard to the women having the right to vote as the women themselves, and become fully as excited over it. The arguments used are of the most varied and startling description. The subject is certainly becoming thoroughly ventilated, and even though male citizens do come to blows, Kingston will undoubtedly place itself upon record as being very energetic both in favor of the movement and in opposition thereto.

JIMMY'S FIRST INVITATION.

From the London Transcript.
Perhaps the worst embarrassments of children come when they begin to receive formal invitations and have to answer them. Young Jimmy, for instance, was much grieved when, after he had struggled for an hour with his reply to an invitation, his mother actually laughed at it.
"Mr. James Northrup declines with pleasure Miss Dorothy Huntington's invitation for the 22nd, and thanks her extremely for having given him the opportunity to do so."

LITERARY NOTES.

—Hamlin Garland has written for the June number of McClure's Magazine impressions of a visit to the great Croquet steel mills at Homestead, showing how the work and life there strike the eye of a strenuous and humane realist. Many pictures made from life drawings will illustrate the article.

After the conference Attorney-General Olney said no special significance was to be attached to it. The government was determined to protect property from mob violence and if United States marshals could not enforce the law United States troops would be sent to their assistance.

THE 24TH TO VISIT PATERSON.

The Company Votes to Accept the Invitation to Participate in the Ceremonies of Laying the Corner Stone of the First Battalion Armory.

Several days ago Capt. McIntyre received a communication from the adjutant of the First Battalion of Paterson, N. J., which stated that it was the desire of the Battalion that the 24th should participate in the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the new armory in that city on Memorial Day, and asking that the company make no other arrangements for that day. He further stated that an official invitation would follow in a few days.

At a special meeting of the 24th held after the parade, last evening, the company voted unanimously to accept the invitation, when it came, and it also voted to secure the services of the West Point Military Band for the occasion.

The company had already voted to turn out on Memorial Day to assist the Grand Army posts in this city in their memorial exercises, but the joint committee has kindly released the company from its acceptance of the invitation.

The First Battalion has twice visited Middletown, first on the occasion of the celebration of the event of Middletown becoming a city and again when the armory corner stone was laid.

At that time the 24th was invited to participate in the celebration when the time should arrive for laying the corner stone of the Paterson armory, and it was this fact which determined the company to ask the G. A. R. posts to release it from its engagement in this city.

REDEDICATED.

The Soldiers' Monument
in Thrall Park.

PRESENTED TO THE CITY.

A Large Crowd Witnesses the Rededication Ceremonies.

VETERANS AND MILITIA IN LINE.

Eloquent Speeches by Hon. M. D. Silvers and Geo. H. Decker, Esq.—The Presentation by Capt. Grier and Acceptance by Mayor Stansbury—The Addresses in Full.

The Soldiers' monument, which was recently removed to Thrall Park, was rededicated, last evening, in the presence of a very large crowd of our citizens. Unfortunately the committee named too late an hour, 7 o'clock, and before the ceremonies were fairly under way, darkness settled upon the assembled crowd and as no provision had been made for lighting up the grounds surrounding the monument there was a cheerless and gloomy air over the proceedings that would not have been felt if the rededication had taken place in daylight and if the sun had shown as brightly as it did when the monument was originally dedicated fifteen years ago. Sunshine would have given greater inspiration to the orators and more enthusiasm to the audience.

The several organizations that had been invited to participate, assembled at the old site of the monument, corner North and Orchard streets, and formed in line in the following order:

Police
Pioneer Band
The Separate Company
Major and Company, Cavalry
The 1st New York
The 1st New York
The 1st New York
The 1st New York

The procession marched to the park, where a platform for the speakers had been erected at the monument.

Hon. M. D. Silvers, who presided at the original dedication of the monument in 1876, was called to preside on this occasion and called the assembly to order, and requested Rev. Dr. Robinson, pastor of the First Congregational Church to make the invocation.

After the prayer and music by the band, Chairman Silvers delivered the following address:

Captain Warner, Veteran Soldiers, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Our memories and our thoughts, to-night, are carried back to that mild and pleasant autumn afternoon, now nearly fifteen years ago, when a large assemblage of people, including many of these here present, had convened at another spot in our then village, to witness the unveiling of this same monument around which we are now gathered, and its dedication to the memory of the soldiers and sailors who went forth from this town of Wallkill, in defense of our imperiled government.

On that occasion the veteran soldiers, largely through whose efforts this monument to the memory of their comrades had been erected, did me the honor to invite me to preside at the dedicatory exercises—an honor that, coming from such a source, I assure you was prized by me higher than any distinction I have ever received at the hands of my fellow citizens.

And now at the rededication of this memorial you have again assigned to me the same honorable position, for which renewed manifestation of your good will I desire to express to you my sincere and grateful acknowledgments.

When this noble monument was placed elsewhere upon the pedestal where it has stood through all these years, it was believed by us all that it was to remain there for all time; that, with the typical soldier surrounding its capstone, standing guard over it, it would, through all the ages to come, be to the passing multitudes along that busy thoroughfare a perpetual reminder of the patriotism, the devotion, the heroism, the services and the sacrifices of our country's brave defenders, who went out from among us to fight our battles for us.

Speaking for myself, and I believe I express the sentiments of many of those within the sound of my voice, I must say that it was with no little regret that I witnessed its removal from the spot where it was originally placed, and where it had rested so long.

But it was thought by some that in the space it occupied in our all too narrow streets, it was an impediment and an obstruction to travel and to traffic, and that therefore it would be better to have it removed to some other and less crowded location. It is known to us all too, that it was occasionally being encroached upon and interfered with and marred in various ways, where it stood.

The loving hands, by whose efforts it had been reared, and the watchful eyes that had so faithfully guarded it, could not, in the course of nature, be expected much longer to give it the constant and careful oversight and attention its preservation required. And so, all things considered, it seemed better that it be placed in this public park, where it can be properly cared for by our city authorities in whose keeping it now is and will be for the years to come. And if it was to be removed I know of no spot more desirable or more appropriate for it, than this embryo, but already beautiful park, the generous gift of the noble-hearted woman whose name it bears—Mrs. Marjette Thrall—given to the people of our city for all time, to come as a pleasure ground, which though scarcely developed as yet, will grow more and more attractive with each recurring year. Here amid these quiet and peaceful and pleasant surroundings, it will be tenderly, lovingly cared for.

Here it will be a silent monitor to the people who will come hither for rest and recreation, teaching them lessons of patriotism and of duty.

Here it will be an object lesson to the prattling children of to-day, who will report to their parents, and long after they shall have grown to manhood and to womanhood, so will it be to the children who shall come after them, and to their children's children from generation to generation, who will be taught its grand significance and the great debt they owe their fathers who did so much to preserve the inestimable privileges which the free people of a united republic are permitted to enjoy.

In reverting to the occasion of the original dedication of this monument, I am sadly impressed with the fact that most of those who were prominent actors in the proceedings of that day, have passed from the scenes of earth—have "gone to join the silent majority."

The then President of our village—Halstead Sweet—always a friend of the soldiers and of the cause for which they fought, who, in his official capacity, gave a welcome to the throng of visitors who came to witness the dedicatory ceremonies, has passed away, but has left the impress of his patriotic example upon this community.

He who so efficiently served as marshal of the day, the gallant, brave and true, though always modest soldier and esteemed citizen, Geo. David P. DeWitt has been gathered to his fathers.

The gifted preacher and faithful minister of the gospel, Rev. Dr. Augustus Seward, always ardently devoted to the cause of his country as to the interests of religion, who then so impressively invoked the divine blessing upon your undertaking, has been called to his reward.

The voices of the eminent orators, the large hearted and patriotic, Hon. Charles E. Winfield and the chivalrous Geo. Judson Kilpatrick, as eloquent upon the rostrum as he was daring upon the battle field, who both spoke so effectively upon that occasion, have long been stilled in death. Out of all too soon in the midst of their usefulness, they sleep in honored graves.

The Hon. John W. Fordon, who then represented this district in Congress, who was present and contributed liberally towards this monument, he too has gone the way of all the living.

And the veteran soldiers who that day marched so proudly in the great procession, though with fuller ranks and with stronger step than to-day, and who took such an enthusiastic interest in the proceedings to which I have alluded, many of them, I say many of them since then have answered the last roll call on earth.

As we look upon the whitened locks, the furrowed cheeks, the bent forms, the tottering step of many of you veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, who are permitted to be present on this occasion, we are all sadly reminded that you too must soon surrender to the invincible enemy that conquers us all.

But when you are gone should our country's starry flag be again insulted, should our Union of States be ever again assailed by traitors within or foes without, you can rest assured that they will have willing and brave defenders in the Sons of Veterans—worthy sons of worthy sires—and these members of the National Guard, who have accompanied you here, to-night, to participate in these ceremonies.

And long after you and all of us here assembled shall have passed away, this monument which stands so proudly before us will attest in some degree to generations yet unborn, the appreciation in which your grateful countrymen hold the services and cherish the memories of its brave defenders.

The only debt the nation can never repay is that which it owes its gallant warriors.

God forbid, that the memory of the soldier who died for the land of his birth shall ever be forgotten.

George H. Decker, Esq., who had been requested to deliver the oration, then spoke as follows:

MR. DECKER'S ORATION.

Mr. Chairman and Ladies and Gentlemen:

As I passed the park, this afternoon, and observed the place on which the monument stands, I was impressed, as you are impressed, with the beauty of these surroundings. And now in the outset, I desire to do myself the pleasure and you the justice to acknowledge the noble munificence of the generous lady whose gift to the city has made this occasion possible. This occasion, I say, for we have come up, to-night, to rededicate the Soldiers' Monument of Middletown and Wallkill.

Some one has said that as long as the Fourth of July shall be observed by the American people as a national holiday, American liberty and American institutions will be safe. That person might have added that as long as the memories of their country's defenders shall be cherished and revered by the American people, liberty and American institutions will be secure. It is now a generation since the stirring times of '61 and '63. The majority of those who now look upon the grateful proportions of the monument which we rededicate to-night, only know of the great conflict as a tradition and a tale that is told; but, from what I see about me, there is no room for fear that the sense of personal and national gratitude to the heroes of '61 and '65 has diminished. And just here, Mr. Chairman, is the significance of this gathering and this occasion. This monument, an symbol of the cause and theme it commemorates, now unveiled for the second time, has already been dedicated with due and appropriate ceremony. With eloquence and music and prayer it was long ago erected in our midst. After the lapse of all these years, when no change has been made save only its location, the people again come up with the same reverence and the same zeal to renew their pledges and attest their patriotism. Well, sir, that it is so, for with our increased and increasing prosperity, come increasing dangers. A little more than a quarter of a century ago, public opinion towards the United States was such in England, as to permit the Alabama to almost sweep the American flag from the high seas. In France public opinion was such as to permit a tool of the then reigning Emperor to be placed upon the throne of Mexico, in order that the safety of this Republic might be imperilled.

But to-day, in England, in France, in Italy, in Germany, in Austria, in Russia, all along the national line of the Old World, "Old Glory" is cheered by the people upon their own soil, even before the flag of their own nationality. No wonder then that the faces of these people are turned towards the Western Republic. Far be it from me, sir, to say that good men and good women of any and every nationality should be denied admission upon our shores, but I do say that to only good men and good women, such men and women as will make good American citizens should the doors of this republic be opened; and to that end I would constitute every American Consul abroad a commissioner of emigration and hold him to the strictest accountability. "Vigilance, eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

The soldiers' monument, Mr. Chairman, serves a double purpose. In every city, in every village and in every hamlet, throughout this vast Empire of Republics, the stately shaft should rise to the American soldier and sailor to commemorate their deeds, their valor and what they have accomplished. First, to remind you and me and those who shall come after us, of the great price of the heritage which they have transmitted.

Second, to do and to render simple justice to our country's heroes;—and yet they need no monument of stone or brass. In Gettysburg, Antietam and Lookout Mountain, in Cedar Creek and Malvern Hill, no less than in Concord, Lexington and Bunker Hill, in all the battle plains of our beloved country, their names are enshrined and will be forever.

"On Fame's eternal camping ground, their silent tents are spread, And glory guards with countless round, The bivouac of the dead."

The truest justice and the grandest service we may render to the American soldier is to be true,—true to God, true to country and true to ourselves.

TRANSFER OF THE MONUMENT TO THE CITY.

When it was decided by the monument committee to consent to the removal of the monument from its original site to the park, it was decided to transfer it to the city and surrender all claims upon it other than the claim that all patriotic citizens feel in this memorial to the honored dead of the town of Wallkill and the city of Middletown.

Capt. James A. Grier, of the committee was selected to make the formal presentation and did so in the following words:

CAPTAIN GRIER'S ADDRESS.

Mayor Stansbury, on behalf of the Soldiers' Monument Committee, I formally transfer to you and the Common Council and your successors, to guard, to care for and maintain the monument, re-erected and rededicated, a tribute of love from a grateful people in memory of our heroic dead.

Mayor W. K. Stansbury then arose and accepted the monument in the following speech:

MAYOR STANSBURY'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Chairman, Gentlemen of the Society and Fellow Citizens:

On behalf of the city of Middletown, which I have the honor to represent on this occasion, I formally accept this monument in its present location and believe that this is the appropriate spot for its permanent abiding place.

The wisdom of the selection of this site for our Soldiers' Monument will certainly be recognized and duly approved.

The park as it shall be improved and embellished will make a fitting background for the monument, and the monument will ever be an adornment to the park. As this monument now rests upon substantial foundations prepared for it, so may the memories which cluster around it be as firmly enshrined in the hearts and affections of the people.

A benediction was pronounced by Dr. Robinson, the organizations reformed and marched to their several headquarters and the crowd dispersed.

The Soldiers' Monument in doubtless now located where it will stand so long as granite can resist the action of time and the elements. Most people are well satisfied with the change and many who were originally opposed to the removal have become reconciled to it after seeing it in place, and any who have not must accept the inevitable. The monument is there and to stay.

Well, that's one of the things to be learned only by experience. It's been one of our specialties for many years, and now it comes easy. Our prices, too, are like our trusses—easily borne. ONE DAY.
Death came along one day
And he lay there—
Till he was a child.
In this world, right and left,
Painful were the hours.

Shall we, too, suffer,
And lie there—

Ancient Musical Instruments.
In the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York city there is an interesting collection of musical instruments of all nations, many of which belong to past centuries. They lie silently in the glass cases. The strings of mandolins and lutes that have broken and twisted, and the fingers that once swept them have passed away, but still the air seems trembling with melody. Imagination pictures the banquet hall, the summer nights when the troubadour sang songs under his ladylove's window, or the Bedouin camp in the desert, where the fute and guitar were played during the evening hour of repose. There are instruments here of all characters—rude violins and banjos fashioned by savage hands, and dainty lutes inlaid with gold and mother of pearl, instruments which have played their part in ancient ceremonies in far away India and China, in the castles of the middle ages and in the African wilderness. It is interesting to note that all nations have tried to make instruments to please the eye as well as to produce sweet sounds. The stringed instruments and flutes of savage races are often grotesque and even ugly to civilized eyes, but the poor savage did his best. He carved his instruments as well as he could and also adorned it with whatever precious trinkets he had in his possession. —H. S. Conant in St. Nicholas.

Half Married For Half an Hour.
At Dunmore parish church the wedding of a coal porter with a young woman formerly employed at the vicarage was interrupted in a curious manner. The bride and groom were kneeling at the altar steps for the first part of the ceremony, and as they rose to go to the communion rails to complete the rite the best man, probably thinking it was all over, hurriedly snatched a kiss from the bride in accordance with an old custom which is still observed in many country towns. The officiating clergyman, the Rev. C. C. Waters, on rate in charge, was most indignant at the proceedings and ordered the wedding party to leave the church for half an hour. The partially married couple lingered about the precincts for that period of time, when the officiating clergyman returned, and after admonishing the best man, who was the bride's brother-in-law, for his levity in interrupting the service in the manner he had he proceeded to finish the ceremony. —Westminster Gazette.

Painters' Pickle.
Painters' pickle is used for removing old paint. It is useless to waste time and money applying good enamel paint over old paint, for it quickly cracks and grows shabby. Mix 1 1/2 pounds of stone polish, 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of soft soap and a half a pound of washing soda together and stir into about a gallon of water. The pickle should then be boiled till the potash is melted. Apply this with a brush; then let it stand for several hours. The work must afterward be washed thoroughly with strong, hot soda water, using no soap. This pickle may be applied equally well hot or cold. Great care must be taken in using the pickle, as it discolors the finger nails and takes the color out of anything it touches. —Boston Herald.

What's In a Name?
The custom of naming flats after their builders or owners is a growing one and sometimes results in a curious combination. Just below me are two new flat houses, built last summer. One was named "Albert" and on the plate glass front door of the adjoining one was the word "Mafalda." It having been built by a patriotic gentleman who names his flat houses after various wines. But the latter was sold to a man named Hawkins, who forthwith put his own name up. So now the combination is complimentary to the old time and widely known White Horse coachman, "Albert Hawkins." —New York Herald.

Wouldn't Give Up His Seat.
A certain English duchess used to be quite a fixture at the Casino at Monte Carlo, and if she missed getting a chair at the tables her companion would pick out a good natured looking man and whisper, "Would you be kind enough, sir, to yield your place to the duchess?" An Englishman who was carefully playing a complicated system once replied, "Not even to the queen of England!" —New York World.
